BTC 8-Hour Market Report

Mon 12 Oct 2026, 12:00 Malaysia time (04:00 UTC)

BTC ~ $83,900

CoinGlass/CoinDesk: +0.9% to +1.3% 24h; about -2% over 7 days

Quick view	Bias: Neutral, slight upside tilt into CPI	Next 24h range: $82,500 - $85,000	Key floor: $82,800 (24h low), then $80,000	Big event: US CPI Wed 14 Oct, 8:30pm MYT

1. Options - next 24 hours and upcoming expiries

- Next expiry: Deribit daily 12OCT26 settles today 4:00pm MYT (08:00 UTC). The 13OCT26 daily settles Tue 4:00pm MYT, just outside this 24h window.
- How big: daily expiries are small (typically a few hundred million USD at most). Strike-level data for 12OCT26 could not be read this run, so it is treated as too small to move price on its own.
- Which expiry matters: the Fri 16 Oct weekly (about $1.25B BTC notional) lands the morning after PPI and ahead of Warsh's speech; the 30 Oct monthly ($11.69B) is the real magnet, with max pain at $78,000.

Expiry	Largest position seen	Size	Meaning
12 Oct 4pm MYT (daily)	n/a - feed unreadable	n/a	Small daily; no reliable strike data. Assume little pin effect.
16 Oct 4pm MYT (weekly)	Strike detail not published	~$1.25B total notional	Moderate size; last weekly (9 Oct) had max pain $84k and gamma at $90k/$95k/$100k calls.
30 Oct 4pm MYT (monthly)	$95,000 Call	25,031 BTC (~$2.10B)	Biggest single strike on the board; acts as a distant ceiling/magnet for upside hedging.
30 Oct 4pm MYT (monthly)	$70,000 Put	3,212 BTC (~$269M)	Largest put; downside protection is light versus calls.

Upcoming expiries

How options affect the market now

- Calls dominate: the 30 Oct book is 95k calls vs 46k puts (P/C 0.48) and all-expiry P/C is about 0.59. Positioning is optimistic, but the $95k wall is far (+13%) and mostly out-of-the-money, so it does little for spot today.
- Max pain sits below price: $78k for 30 Oct (vs spot ~$83.9k). Pull toward max pain usually only builds in the final days before expiry; it is a background downside gravity, not a 24h driver.
- Dealer hedging near spot: the $84k-$85k zone is where last week's max pain and a long-holder sell zone overlap. Dealers short gamma above $85k would need to buy into a breakout, which can accelerate a move toward $87k.
- Thin put protection: only ~6,000 BTC across the $70k/$80k puts. If $80k breaks, there is little hedging cushion and the move can extend quickly.

- Today's daily expiry is too small to matter; volatility is more likely to come from CPI on Wednesday night than from any expiry in the next 24h.
- After Friday's weekly: expect some freed-up gamma; combined with CPI/PPI and Warsh, Friday may be the most volatile session of the week.

Data note: the Deribit public API (index, DVOL and option book) could not be reached this run, so strike sizes are the largest seen in published articles (CryptoTicker 10 Oct, MEXC, CryptoTimes 9 Oct). USD sizes use spot ~$83,900. DVOL / implied daily move not available this run.

2. Price action and key levels

- BTC trades around $83,900 (CoinGlass $83,933, +1.25% 24h; CoinGecko ~$83,850, +1.1%). 24h range roughly $82,805 - $84,199 (COINOTAG).
- The bounce comes after a -4.5% week and a dip under $82k earlier last week (long liquidations ~$487M on 6 Oct). Price is now back testing the $84k-$85k supply zone.
- Weekend volume was thin ($5.8B 24h per CoinDesk), so the move lacks conviction; Asia Monday and a US bond-market holiday (Columbus Day) keep liquidity light.
- Structure: lower highs since late September near $85k-$87k; buyers have defended $80k-$82k. A clean daily close above $85k would break that pattern.

Type	Level	Why it matters
Resistance 2	$87,000	Weekly target cited by CoinDCX; prior lower-high area.
Resistance 1	$85,000	Long-holder sell zone; rallies rejected here; bullish trigger if reclaimed.
Pivot	$84,000	Last weekly max pain; 24h high $84,199. Above = buyers in control short term.
Support 1	$82,800	24h low; break turns the bounce into a failed retest.
Support 2	$80,000	Round number, $80k put OI; held all last week.
Deep risk	$75,000 - $78,000	30 Oct max pain $78k; analysts flag mid-$70ks if $80k fails.

3. Derivatives, flows and sentiment

Metric	Latest	Read
Futures open interest	$52.1B (CoinGlass)	High leverage still in the system; moves can extend.
Funding rate	+0.0034% (COINOTAG)	Slightly positive, longs paying a little; not overheated.
Long/short ratio	1.48 (COINOTAG)	Crowd leans long; fuel for a long squeeze if support breaks.
Liquidations	$91.6M total, 62% shorts (24h to 10 Oct, TokenPost); BTC $46.9M	Shorts got squeezed on the bounce; liquidation pressure now low.
Spot BTC ETF flows	+$21.1M on 9 Oct; -$388.6M month to date (TFTC)	Flows weak; 7-8 Oct saw -$731M. No strong institutional bid yet.
Options OI (all expiries)	~$31.2B, P/C 0.59 (9 Oct)	Call-heavy, bullish tilt in longer dates.
Fear and Greed	69 - Greed (up from 61)	Sentiment recovered faster than price; vulnerable to a hot CPI.

4. News and macro

- Macro: US September CPI on Wed is the week's main risk; headline seen ~3.6-3.7% y/y, core ~2.4-2.5%. PPI and retail sales follow Thu. Fed Chair Warsh speaks Fri.
- Rates: Fed hiked 25bp in September to 3.75-4.00%. Polymarket shows ~16.5% odds of an Oct 28 hike and ~74.5% for December. US 10-year yield near multi-decade highs (~5.2-5.3%).

- Geopolitics/oil: Houthi attacks on Saudi energy infrastructure and an attack on Riyadh airport pushed Brent above $100 (briefly $105) - an inflation risk. Trump ruled out an Iran strike before the midterms (9 Oct), which helped risk assets.
- Security: Ledger is investigating ~$86M in thefts traced to devices sold via a Southeast Asian distributor; COLDCARD warned of a fake vulnerability alert posted from its X account.
- Regulation/adoption: Thailand is opening the door to locally listed BTC and ETH ETFs. One year on from the 10 Oct 2025 flash crash, BTC/ETH liquidity has recovered.
- Market structure: crypto ETFs saw about -$1.29B outflows last week; spot ETH ETFs posted nine straight days of outflows.

5. Summary and prediction

BTC has bounced about 2% from last week's lows into the $84k-$85k supply zone on thin weekend volume. Options positioning is call-heavy (monthly P/C 0.48, big $95k call wall) but max pain for the large 30 Oct expiry sits well below at $78k, and today's daily expiry is too small to pin price. Funding is only mildly positive and the crowd leans long (L/S 1.48), while ETF flows remain negative for the month and sentiment (Greed 69) has run ahead of price. With CPI on Wednesday night and yields near multi-decade highs, the most likely path is chop below $85k until the data. 24h call: range-bound $82,500 - $85,000, slight upside tilt; a close above $85k flips bullish, a loss of $82.8k opens $80k.

Scenario	Chance	Range	Trigger
Base: range	55%	$82,500 - $85,000	Quiet pre-CPI trading, rejection near $85k, dips bought above $82.8k.
Bullish breakout	22%	$85,000 - $87,500	Hourly/4h close above $85k with rising spot volume; short covering and dealer hedging add fuel.
Bearish	23%	$80,000 - $82,500	Loss of $82.8k; long liquidations given L/S 1.48; oil/yield spike or ETF outflows resume.

- Breakout signal: a 4h close above $85,000 with funding staying below +0.01% (spot-led, not leverage-led).
- Breakdown signal: a 4h close below $82,800, then $80,000 as the line that must hold before CPI.
- Next report: 3:50pm MYT (Mon 12 Oct)
