BTC 8-Hour Market Report

BTC ~ $80,700

Saturday 24 Oct 2026, 15:50 Malaysia time (07:50 UTC)

CoinGecko: 24h -1.0%, 7d -1.0% | 24h range $80,455-$81,939

Quick view	Bias: Neutral-to-bearish (below 50-day MA)	Next 24h range: $79,800 - $81,900	Key floor: $80,000-80,455 (put cluster + 24h low)	Big event: FOMC decision Thu 29 Oct 02:00 MYT; $12B monthly expiry Fri 30 Oct 16:00

1. Options - next 24 hours and upcoming expiries

- Next expiries: today's daily (24 Oct) settles at 16:00 MYT, minutes after this report; the next is the Sunday daily, 25 Oct 16:00 MYT. Both are small weekend dailies.
- How big: no published figures for the weekend dailies, and the Deribit feed could not be read this run. Weekend dailies are typically a tiny fraction of open interest, so they should not move price on their own.
- The expiry that matters: Fri 30 Oct 16:00 MYT - the weekly and October monthly together: about 149,700 BTC (~$12.1B at $80.7k), P/C 0.52, max pain $79,000. It lands one day after the FOMC.

Expiry	Largest position seen	Size	Meaning
25 Oct daily (16:00 MYT)	Not available	n/a	Small weekend daily; no reliable strike data this run. Little hedging impact expected.
30 Oct (weekly + monthly)	$95,000 call	25,570 BTC (~$2.06B)	Far out of the money (+18%); a magnet only if a squeeze starts. Mostly decays to zero.
30 Oct (weekly + monthly)	$70,000 put	4,142 BTC (~$0.33B)	Deep tail hedge; $80k puts (~2,800 BTC in an earlier count) matter more for near-term support.

Upcoming expiries

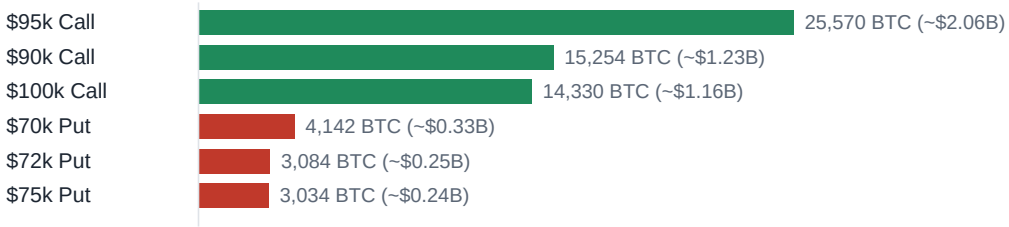
30 Oct expiry - largest open interest by strike (Deribit, BTC; USD at $80.7k)



How options affect the market now

- Weekend dailies are too small to matter. Price over the next 24 hours will be driven by spot flows and leverage, not expiry hedging.
- Pull toward max pain ($79,000): spot is only ~2% above it. With a week to go, the drift toward $79-80k into Friday is a mild headwind, not a force.
- $80,000 is the options floor: a cluster of protective puts sits there. Dealers who are short those puts sell into weakness below $80k, so a clean break could speed up the drop toward $79k and below.
- The call wall is far away: the $90k-$100k calls (~$4.5B) are 12-24% out of the money. They have no near-term pull unless BTC rallies hard; they show that longer-dated positioning is still bullish (P/C 0.52).

- Volatility: DVOL was ~38 (20 Oct), implying ~2.0% (~$1,600) a day, while realized has been far lower (~20% over 14 days). Options look rich, so a quiet weekend is the default, with FOMC and Friday's expiry as catalysts.
- After 30 Oct: roughly a third of Deribit BTC open interest rolls off, which usually frees price to move more in early November.

Data note: the Deribit public API could not be read this run, so strike data comes from published reports (CryptoTicker, 17 Oct; Bitcoin.com, 10 Oct) and may have shifted since. Figures are "largest seen", not a full book. USD sizes = OI x $80,709.

2. Price action and key levels

- BTC is ~$80,700 (CoinGecko), down 1.0% on the day, in a 24h range of $80,455-$81,939. The week ran from ~$84,800 down to ~$80,450.
- It closed below the 50-day MA (~$81,807) on 23 Oct for the first time in 66 days, and is also under the 20-day (~$82,560). The 100-day (~$75,291) and 200-day (~$72,900) sit well below.
- Momentum is soft: daily RSI is ~45 and the 4h RSI is ~38 (TheCryptoBasic). This is not oversold yet.
- The drop was driven by Thursday's Nasdaq -2.6% risk-off, $636M of ETF outflows and ~$430M of long liquidations. Friday's attempt to hold $81.7k faded overnight.

Type	Level	Why it matters
Resistance 2	$82,560 / $84,800	20-day MA, then this week's high; a reclaim would bring the $85k+ upper range back into view
Resistance 1	$81,800 - $81,940	50-day MA plus the 24h high; first sellers on any bounce
Pivot	$81,000	Mid-range and Friday's close area; holding above it keeps the weekend neutral
Support	$80,000 - $80,455	24h low plus the $80k put cluster and round number; dealer selling may speed up if broken
Support 2	$79,000 - $79,700	Max pain for 30 Oct plus the 15 Oct low ($79,709)
Deep risk	$75,000 - $75,300	100-day MA and $75k put strike; reachable only on a macro shock or a hawkish FOMC

3. Derivatives, flows and sentiment

Metric	Latest	Read
Futures open interest	~$33.2B (CoinGlass, 23 Oct)	Compressed after the flush; leverage partly cleared
Funding (perps)	~0.007% / 8h (23 Oct)	Mildly positive; longs not crowded, but no short squeeze fuel either
Liquidations (24h)	~$440M, ~$400M longs (22-23 Oct)	Long-side flush on the 50-day break; weaker since
Spot BTC ETF flows	Thu -$635.6M; Fri -$137.9M	Two-day outflow of ~$773M after $1B+ of inflows Mon-Wed; week still ~+$300M
Fear & Greed	47 (Neutral, 23 Oct)	No panic and no euphoria
Implied vol (DVOL)	~38 (20 Oct, latest found)	~2.0%/day implied vs ~1%/day realized; options price more movement than delivered

4. News and macro

- ETF demand cooled: spot BTC ETFs lost $635.6M on Thu 22 Oct (largest since June; IBIT -$254M, FBTC -$218M) and another $137.9M on Fri 23 Oct (SoSoValue).
- Risk-off in equities: Nasdaq fell 2.6% on Thursday (worst since June) on AI pressure; S&P 500 -1.2%. BTC tracked lower.
- Fed next week: the FOMC meets 27-28 Oct with rates at 3.75-4.00% after a September hike. Markets mostly expect a hold (Reuters poll 94/100), but a December hike is widely priced; the focus is on Chair Warsh's tone. The 10-year yield is near 4.99%.

- Oil high: oil is at a six-month high (Brent cited near $100-113), which keeps inflation and rate risk alive.
- Heavy central-bank week: BoC (hike ~80% priced) on 28 Oct, ECB on 29 Oct and BoJ on 30 Oct, plus US Q3 GDP and September PCE on 29 Oct and Big Tech earnings.

Event calendar (Malaysia time)

5. Summary and prediction

BTC has slipped under its 50-day average for the first time since August. It is sitting just above a $80,000-80,455 floor that combines the 24h low, a cluster of protective puts and a round number. ETF buyers stepped back (~$773M out in two days), equities were risk-off, and the Fed and a $12B expiry are both next week. The weekend options expiries are small, so the next 24 hours should come down to whether $80k holds in thin weekend trade. Leverage has been partly cleared and funding is calm, which argues against a cascade, but the bounce has no catalyst until US markets reopen. 24h call: range-bound $79,800-$81,900 with a slight downside lean; a 4h close below $80,000 opens $79,000.

Scenario	Chance	Range	Trigger
Base: weekend chop	55%	$79,800 - $81,900	Thin weekend volume; $80k defended, $81.8k (50-day MA) caps bounces
Bullish: reclaim 50-day	20%	$81,900 - $83,000	4h close above $81,940 with rising spot volume; short covering into Monday
Bearish: lose $80k	25%	$78,500 - $80,000	4h close below $80,000; put-hedge selling and long stops toward max pain $79k / $79.7k low

- Bear signal: a 4h close below $80,000 (below the $80,455 low), with funding turning negative.
- Bull signal: a 4h close back above $81,800-81,940 (50-day MA / 24h high), and Monday ETF flows turning positive.
- Next report: 11:50pm MYT (Sat 24 Oct)
