1. Options - next 24 hours and upcoming expiries

- Next expiry: Deribit daily, Sat 17 Oct, 4:00pm MYT (08:00 UTC). It is a small daily contract; no published size was found and the Deribit feed was not reachable this run.
- Just rolled off: the Fri 16 Oct weekly (~$1.45-1.47B notional, max pain $83,000) expired at 4:00pm MYT today, removing the $78k-$80k put cluster that had been holding price near $80k-$83k.
- The expiry that matters: the Fri 30 Oct monthly (~$12B, about 35% of Deribit BTC options OI), settling two days after the 28 Oct FOMC. Next weekly is Fri 23 Oct (size not yet published).

Expiry	Largest position seen	Size	Meaning
17 Oct daily (4pm MYT)	No data published	n/a	Daily contract; normally too small to move spot. Treat as noise.
16 Oct weekly (expired 4pm today)	$78,000 Put	2,746 BTC (~$225M)	Was the main downside hedge; now gone, so less 'pinning' near $80k.
16 Oct weekly (expired 4pm today)	$90,000 Call	1,144 BTC (~$94M)	Upside bets far out of the money; expired worthless.
23 Oct weekly	Not yet published	n/a	Watch for size build-up early next week.

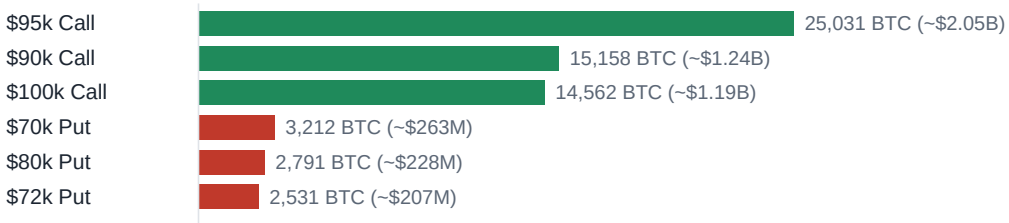
Largest open interest, Deribit 30 Oct 2026 monthly expiry (BTC; USD at $81,800)



How options affect the market now

- Next-24h expiry is too small to matter. The Saturday daily is a minor contract; weekend liquidity and headlines (Iran, rates) will drive price more than option flows.
- $80,000 is the options floor. It is the most-traded Deribit strike and sits on both the expired weekly and the 30 Oct monthly. Dealers who sold these puts tend to buy dips toward it, but a clean break would force them to sell, which can speed a drop to $78k.

- Pull toward $78k-$79k into month-end. Max pain for the big 30 Oct monthly is ~$78,000, below spot. That is a mild gravitational pull, not a target, and it fades if spot trends.
- Upside is capped by distance, not walls. The giant $90k-$100k calls (P/C 0.52) are far above spot; they only bite if BTC rallies past $85k-$87k, where dealer short-gamma hedging could then accelerate a squeeze.
- Volatility is cheap. BVIV 30-day IV eased to ~38% (from 42%), implying ~2.0% (~$1,600) a day. With the weekly gone, vol could stay compressed over the weekend; a break of the range would reprice it quickly.
- Sentiment split: short-dated traders are buying puts (weekly P/C above 1; a $78k put spread flagged by Derive), while the month-end board stays call-heavy.

Data note: Deribit's public API was not reachable this run, so all option figures are the largest positions published by CryptoTicker (10-15 Oct), Crypto Briefing (8 Oct), Phemex and CoinDesk (16 Oct). Treat as 'largest seen'; USD sizes = BTC OI x $81,800.

2. Price action and key levels

- Thursday's hot US PPI (6.3% y/y) knocked BTC briefly below $80,000 (low ~$79,800), the first break in a month, with ~$1B of crypto liquidations.
- Buyers stepped in fast: BTC recovered to $82,000-$82,700 in Asia/Europe on Friday after Fed Chair Warsh gave no hike signal; the US session held ~$81,400-$81,800.
- Repeated rejections at $83,100-$84,350 (12, 14 Oct highs) keep the market in a $79.8k-$84.4k range; on track for a second weekly loss.
- Daily momentum is soft (RSI ~48, MACD below zero) while price holds above the 50-day EMA (~$80,400).

Type	Level	Why it matters
Resistance 2	$85,000	Round number and FXStreet's first upside target; break opens $87,200-$87,800.
Resistance 1	$84,000	Week's ceiling, capped every rally; daily close above is the bull trigger.
Pivot	$82,500-$83,000	20-day EMA (~$82,950) and old $83k max pain; acceptance above flips bias up.
Support	$80,000 / $79,800	Biggest put strike, most-traded option, 50-day EMA ~$80,400, Thursday low.
Deep risk	$78,000-$78,700	Monthly max pain, put-spread target, 61.8% Fib $78,661.
Tail risk	$76,000-$76,800	100-day EMA ~$76,800 and 50-week SMA ~$76,600.

3. Derivatives, flows and sentiment

Metric	Latest	Read
BTC futures OI	~$37.5B (major venues)	Rebuilding after flush; all-crypto futures OI +2% to $142.2B.
Funding (majors)	~5-10% annualised	Mild long bias, no froth.
Liquidations (24h)	~$311M (Fri) vs ~$1B (Thu)	Leverage partly cleaned out by CPI/PPI flush.
Implied vol (BVIV 30d)	~38% (from 42%)	Implied daily move ~2.0% (~$1,600).
Spot BTC ETF flows	14 Oct -$261.5M; 15 Oct +$5.1M	October to date ~-$540M (Farside); weak demand.
Fund flows (CoinShares)	~-$434M this week	Hawkish CPI repricing hit sentiment.
Fear & Greed	63 (Greed), 16 Oct 00:00 UTC	Up from 53; other index variants read ~48-59 (neutral).
Fed hike odds (Oct)	~12-15% (CME FedWatch)	Down from 27-55% after Warsh stayed non-committal.

4. News and macro

- Hot US inflation: September CPI 3.7% y/y (core 2.6%), PPI 6.3% y/y (+1.3% m/m), the fastest in almost four years. October hike odds spiked to ~55% before easing.

- Warsh in Bangkok (IMF): "I don't prejudge meetings"; defended September's hike to 3.75%-4.00% and flagged AI-driven inflation risk. Hike odds fell to ~12-15%. Fed blackout starts 17 Oct.
- Geopolitics/oil: Trump said the US may strike Iran's nuclear sites again; Houthi attacks continue. Brent ~$106, WTI ~$97.5 - an inflation and risk-off headwind.
- Equities: KOSPI fell ~7.6% Thursday on a chip sell-off (Nikkei -5% intraday) before Asia rebounded Friday; S&P 500 edged higher, Nasdaq weak on AI-capex doubts.
- Flows/treasuries: Strategy added 250 BTC (848,250 held); Strive bought 3,311 BTC. ETF outflow streak on track for a second week.

5. Summary and prediction

BTC is stuck in a $79.8k-$84.4k range after hot US inflation data and a quick recovery once Fed Chair Warsh declined to signal an October hike. With the Friday weekly expired, the next 24 hours carry only a small Saturday daily expiry, so options positioning matters mainly through the $80,000 put floor and the ~$78,000 max pain of the large 30 Oct monthly. ETF demand is weak and geopolitics (Iran, oil above $100) adds weekend headline risk, but leverage was flushed on Thursday and funding is calm, which limits cascade risk. 24h call: range-bound, $80,500-$83,500, with $80,000 the line that decides the next leg.

Scenario	Chance	Range	Trigger
Base: weekend chop	55%	$80,500 - $83,500	Thin weekend liquidity, no Fed speakers (blackout), quiet headlines.
Bullish: range break up	20%	$83,500 - $85,500	Hourly close above $84,000 with rising OI and positive funding; calmer oil/Iran news.
Bearish: floor test	25%	$78,000 - $80,500	Loss of $79,800 on volume; Iran strike headlines or oil spike; dealer put hedging accelerates.

- Up signal: 4h close above $84,000 (week's ceiling) - opens $85,000 then $87,200.
- Down signal: 4h close below $79,800 - opens $78,000 (max pain / put-spread target).
